

Archives of Emergency Medicine

September 1992, Vol. 9, No. 3, pp. 267-346

Contents

F. T. DE DOMBAL	Guest Editorial: Computers, diagnoses and patients with acute abdominal pain	267
P. A. STONBEBRIDGE, P. FREELAND, J. B. RAINEY & D. A. D. MACLEOD	Audit of computer-aided diagnosis of abdominal pain in accident and emergency departments	271
J. HEYWORTH	Conjunctival oxygen monitoring in the initial assessment of trauma	274
N. SELLWOOD	An ambulance helicopter for emergency calls	280
M. McKEE, P. PRIEST, M. GINZLER & N. BLACK	Can out-of-hours operating in gynaecology be reduced	290
A. R. PHIPPS, & J. BLANSHARD	A review of in-patient hand infection	299
B. TAIWO, M. FLOWERS & N. ZOLTIE	Reducing children's fear when undergoing painful procedures	306
D. J. DEEHAN, T. F. BEATTIE, D. KNIGHT & H. JONGSCHAAP	Avulsion fracture of the straight and reflected heads of rectus femoris	311
A. B. WARD, A. M. BOUGHEY, T. S. AUNG & K. BARRETT	Use of head injury instruction cards in accident centres	314
U. GULY & P. DRISCOLL	Case Report: The management of quinine-induced blindness	317
M. GAVALAS, H. POTTS & C. S. B. GALASKO	Case Report: Bone infection and the limping child in the accident and emergency department: a diagnosis to be considered	323
S. M. ROBINSON & S. S. TACHAKRA	Case Report: Skin ulceration due to cement	326
Letters to the Editor
V. SCHNEIDEN & U. MARREN-BELL	Violence in the accident and emergency department	330
C. CURRY	Accident - an anachronism	331
N. ZOLTIE & B. TAIWO	Effects of the Gulf War on accident and emergency attendance	332
A. F. T. BROWN, C. MYERS, S. DUNJEY & R. H. ASHBY	Teaching trauma management	334
D. H. WILSON	Pulsed electromagnetic energy and pre-tibial lacerations	335
C. PUTTERMAN	Massive haemothorax from central venous catheterization: a note of caution	335
A. RODGER, J. FERGUSON & T. F. BEATTIE	Teaching basic life support	338
Journal Scan	20	339
Erratum		346

BLACKWELL SCIENTIFIC PUBLICATIONS

Oxford London Edinburgh Boston Melbourne

Berlin Paris Vienna

Printed in Great Britain by Bell & Bain Ltd, Glasgow