

Call for EMJ Decision Editors

EMJ is looking to expand its cadre of Decision Editors. These individuals select and invite reviewers for articles submitted to the journal, assess the reviews and make a recommendation to the Editor in Chief. Applicants should have previous experience reviewing for a scientific journal and preferably prior peer-reviewed publications. We welcome Decision Editors from all countries, and with any expertise within emergency medicine. Statistical expertise is not required. We are particularly in need of Decision Editors for studies on ED utilization, ED operations and patient flow, qualitative studies, toxicology and trauma. To apply, or for further information, please submit a CV, a copy of one or two reviews you have done for an EM journal, and a brief list of keywords that describe your area(s) of expertise to info.emj@bmj.com.